

The Regulation of Railroad Abandonments

BY

CHARLES R. CHERINGTON

*Associate Professor of Government
Harvard University*

HARVARD UNIVERSITY PRESS

Cambridge, Massachusetts

1948

CONTENTS

I.	INTRODUCTION	3
	1. The Problem	3
	2. The Significance of the Commission's Experience	5
	3. Specific Aspects of the Commission's Administrative Experience	10
II.	THE LEGAL BACKGROUND: THE STATUTE	17
	1. Earlier Controls over Railroad Abandonment	17
	2. The Legislative Background	25
III.	THE LEGAL FRAMEWORK: JURISDICTIONAL CONFLICTS AND JUDICIAL REVIEW	41
	1. Division of Authority between State and Federal Governments	41
	2. Lines Exempted by the Transportation Act of 1920 from the Commission's Jurisdiction	62
	3. Judicial Review of the Commission's Administrative Discretion	69
IV.	ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURE IN ABANDONMENT CASES	80
	1. The Requirements of the Statute	81
	2. The Commission's Exercise of Its Procedural Rule-Making Power	83
	3. The Commission's Internal Organization with Respect to Abandonments	86
	4. Procedural Steps Leading to a Decision	87
	5. Coöperation between the Interstate Commerce Commission and State Regulatory Commissions in Abandonment Cases	95
V.	THE VOLUME AND CHARACTER OF ADMINISTRATIVE BUSINESS	99
	1. The Number of Applications	99
	2. The Disposition of the Applications	101
	3. Certificates Granted, Classified by States and Regions	104
	4. The Causes of Abandonment	108

VI.	THE EXERCISE OF ADMINISTRATIVE DISCRETION: INTERPRETATION OF "THE PUBLIC CONVENIENCE AND NECESSITY".	119
	1. The Particularist Approach	119
	2. The Balancing of Interests	125
	3. Special Administrative Considerations	136
	4. Administrative Temporizing	142
	5. The Exercise of Administrative Discretion in Relation to the Economic Causes of Abandonment	146
VII.	THE EXERCISE OF ADMINISTRATIVE DISCRETION: SPECIAL PROBLEMS	159
	1. The Measurement of Operating Losses	159
	2. The Problems of Organized Labor in Abandonment Cases	167
	3. The Use of Conditions Precedent	172
	4. Denials: Their Significance and Subsequent History	179
VIII.	PROBLEMS OF REGULATORY STRATEGY	189
	1. Rejected Alternatives: The Pattern of Dissent	189
	2. Indirect Approaches to the Abandonment Problem	205
	3. Abandonment Problems during World War II	219
IX.	CONCLUSION	228
	1. The Mechanics of Regulating Railroad Abandonments	228
	2. Administrative Discretion and Regulatory Strategy	238
	3. The Primary Lesson of the Record: The Need for Planning in the Exercise of Administrative Discretion	243
	LIST OF CASES CITED	261
	INDEX	275